

Weight Family Letter--November 1996

Dear Family,

Hannah's cross country team took 2nd at districts and was invited to participate at state. She PR'd at the race even though she wasn't feeling well. She has spent the last two days sleeping. I can't decide if she is sick or just exhausted from burning both ends of the candle for too many weeks!

Hyrum PR'd at his district meet too. He came in 12th and took 12 seconds off his time. He had his first orthodontic appointment and will probably be in braces soon. He has a friend with leukemia who has lost his hair due to chemo therapy. Hyrum and other boys shaved their heads to look like him. It made the boy laugh to see them bald too!

I've been released from my Webelos calling and was asked to be education councilor in Relief Society. I've been hiding in cub scouts the past 5 years (and loving it!) so I guess it's time to move to something completely out of my comfort zone! The day before I was called I went out and bought a quilt book and fabric to do homemade crafts for Christmas gifts. The R.S. president just called to thank me for accepting--"that's the first step" she said. I have a feeling the second step will be shelving those crafty Christmas projects!

Speaking of Christmas, I talked to Ginger and Liz and we think we have the Christmas giving list figured out for this year:

Sherlene give to Charlotte
David gives to Sherlene
Virginia gives to David
Nancy gives to Virginia

Tracy gives to Nancy
Liz gives to Tracy
Charlotte gives to Liz

Willis has been working hard on his Arrow of Light Award. He has earned all the Webelos pins but two and plans to finish those two activity badges up before he moves into Blazers in November.

Our friend who was baptized last December is preparing to go the temple. She's been researching her genealogy and has been the proxy for the baptisms of the women in her family. Others have performed the other ordinances. It makes me really happy to see that she hasn't lost her enthusiasm for the gospel.

Willis celebrated his 11th birthday yesterday. Hannah made him a "Goosebump" cake that turned out really cute. I bought him a game that we already have (memory problems already!) He was really sweet about it and said to me that he should be giving me a present for giving him birth.

Sarah will be in Utah Dec. 3-8 to visit UVSC, BYU and Uof U. She is going with a friend and will be staying in the dorms with friends. Well that's all for now! Love, Bryan, Charlotte and kids
