

ODE TO A BLACK CROCHET LADY

January 3, 1995 HTH

If I could transcend time and space
We would sit face to face
And reminisce on some Zimbabwe day
When I bargained for your cotton crochet
Then, later on my couch, sick with the flu,
With nothing to do
I explore the exquisite symmetry
That covers me.