

that was quite expensive for Marty & Liz. I have never seen so many flowers at one affair.
Someone said they had 76 doz in carnations. They said they center pieces & plants they used as decoration and I hope they were able to relinch some of their investment.

Sat morn at 4 A.M. we left & drove straight through to home.
15 hrs - we were tired.
It may be ~~straining~~ too much as we get older.

It was nice to see our children & grandchildren.
Liz & Charlotte are doing well as brothers and are serving the Lord in the church there.

They bring us so much happiness. It is so good to see the children active in the church.

Liz has stripped the kitchen cabinets in her home and had a cabinet built for the fam room & dining room.
She did all her own papering & refinishing & did a beautiful job.

It's interesting to see what projects interest the different children. I never would have pictured Liz as painting & papering & refinishing etc. But she does - and gets it done beautifully & in good time.

Sherline does some painting & papering but a project she undertakes may go on for some time. She gets sidetracked.
I have found things I leave "to get back to" I never "get back" to, so I try to get my projects finished while I am at it - one problem is that everything else gets to get while I am working on that one project. (Housework - ironing etc.)

All the girls see except nanay and she can if she has to, but she never proceeds normally. Therefore the end result (when she was a girl) was somewhat questionable and often ends up unfinished or in the garbage.

Charlotte may become the family genealogist if Tracy doesn't beat her to it.

Virginia does everything (as does Liz & Sherline) but has become a quilt-fuff. This would please her grandmother Langford who did beautiful
