I will ~~xxxx~~ not want any more myself, and I can't sell the dresses I have on hand. Don't send me any more. I hope I can find someone to buy the snowflakes, and maybe dresses. (I will show them) and I will tell them you will have to tell them how much they will cost them. Remember to add your profit, when you quote, which should be double your cost.

I will have them write to you personally.
Hope I can find someone.

P.S. The girls love them. I only wish you had let me know earlier about the rise in price.

I doubt if it would pay you to have them blocked there as it would cost so much to ship them because they would be bulkier and heavier.

I'm sorry this happened, but you'll know how to figure better next time. You remember I put a question next to find out how much thread you had used and the cost and the price the ladies had charged you. I added this all up, plus the shipping, and added that much as it was the only way I could arrive at a price. The figures you sent me, and which I broke down for you will help you figure what to quote the anyone who may write to you wanting them next year. You will need to add any transportation charges you have for delivery and pick up. I figured the 3.50 for transportation each from the 10.50 for 300 it cost to send the order I just received. It will cost slightly more for 4 and slightly less for 2 & 3. Take that into account when you quote them a price per each. Or you can quote them a price per each plus shipping or C.O.D.
