

Against the idea of organic and "Western" only by God, but they played it down.

The ~~idea~~ of the child was innocent, then, the parent had to know how to raise him right, do a new phenomenon, the "operational" child raising. Adults are now to raise children, at first they, too, ~~that~~ not only child was exempt but that parents, by new management could form their character.

There was still the school that followed British style, however.

For two English the parents were having control of their children by use of coercion, even didn't have to wait for his father's land -

He could go get consent on the most frontier.

every minute to fill in the
the

Carl Bregler claims that the revolutionary war had effects on the family, the have two more: 1) child is innocent, childhood is a valuable time of life and child is entitled, ~~British~~ Parents are responsible for raising their children -

Attending almost became a habit

2) marriage was during family life + mutual regard, young people choosing their own mates, except in very wealthy homes.

3. the doctrine of "separate spheres" was the in home - he out of it. The father was having his private position in home. He became civic citizen and disciplinarian, this gave women more autonomy within home

4. families were formerly (before revolution) had 8 children were now having fewer children.

even
there
you most