

School, the parent, and the child psychologist. Child training like a pendulum, swinging back and forth and current child training (the ^{child care} ~~book~~ ^{book}) but now the focus is on "tough parenting" Parents fight & struggling to move towards "Practical Mom". ~~Parents~~ The trend is away from Parents being blamed for everything. One of the current child "problems" to face in the current year has been on the problem of "Latch Key" children, day care nurseries. It is presently a growing issue, especially since the divorce rate is so high, and men and more mothers (commonly greatly blamed) are having to leave the home to work. Parenting is hard work!

Parent: I forgot to mention the use of the term "pre-school" and the adolescent. After child labor laws freed the children to be in school, there was time with their parents who now had more input on children. The term "adolescence" was adopted to describe the years after puberty & before adulthood. It was realized that it was a period of trauma (for both child and parent) and that this was concept of pre-adolescent & adolescents gave the child specialists more to write about.
