

especially if new immigrant families had to work, as did most of the women.

In Rochester the traditional role of the father of the family leading his family to God changed to the women leading the men to God. This was the result of Charles Finney's religious revival in Rochester.

You need to relate your material to the question. Just providing lots of details and facts is not enough. Further, you needed to talk more about the 19th century and to compare and contrast it to the colonial period.
