

May 23, 1977

Dear Hall Frumbly,

What do you all think of a grandmother who for her birthday wants folding chairs for her grandchildren?

We enjoyed all the family letters so much - Charlotte, thanks for including a note. Enjoyed Weyon's letter thoroughly - Nancy, we still don't have your address - would you mind including it in your next letter?

I have enjoyed a very rapid recovery - had none of the usual side effects - the only thing I could complain of was sore arms! Richard Alexander weighed 8 lbs, 4oz, was 21 inches long, and was born at 4:49 pm Saturday, May 14th, 1977. He is a vigorous, healthy sturdy little boy with straight legs and incredibly long feet! It's a good thing he's not a girl - he looks like a boy. I didn't think the sex of the baby would matter at all to me but I was surprised at how tickled I was <sup>(we were)</sup> to have evened things

Out. So enough of proud parents, hey?

Mom, I like the idea of your keeping a record of all the letters, but we want our own original copy - We'd be willing to send a Xerox copy (and never send the original) (just keep it for our files) but you'd have to send it on to Barry and Virginia, etc, and wait for it to come around the 2nd time before you pulled it out - which would eventually result in a packet of letters twice the present size. So I think Tracy's idea is a great one - just copy everything that's there when it gets to you. And I'd be willing to donate all the copies I have of <sup>past</sup> letters from Sam & Sherlene, David & Karen, etc. (Gyp, I've kept every one of them Guess whose file is fattest? HA-HA.)

My vote is for Hallmarack - Like Mom says, it's "sticky" and I never will adjust to all the implications of Holocaust - I'm not worried what the Jews think about it (our Jewish friends are greater preachers of "forgetting the past" than we are) - I don't like what I think about it - It was a holocaust for 6-7 million Christians too - but it was a holocaust - what a bad place to run out

38 1992

Out. So enough of proud parents, hey?

Mom, I like the idea of your keeping a record of all the letters, but we want our own original copy - We'd be willing to send a Xerox copy (and never send the original) (just keep it for our files) but you'd have to send it on to Barry and Virginia, etc, and wait for it to come around the 2nd time before you pulled it out - which would eventually result in a packet of letters twice the present size. So I think Tracy's idea is a great one - just copy everything that's there when it gets to you. And I'd be willing to donate all the copies I have of <sup>past</sup> letters from Sam & Sherlene, David & Karen, etc. (Gee, I've kept every one of them Guess whose file is fattest? HA-HA.)

My vote is for Hallmanack - Like Mom says, it's "sticky" and I never will adjust to all the implications of Holocaust - I'm not worried what the Jews think about it (our Jewish friends are greater preachers of "forgetting the past" than we are) - I don't like what I think about it - It was a holocaust for 6-7 million Christians too - but it was a holocaust - what a bad place to run out of room! LOVE YOU ALL - Betty

B.H. 3