

The elites of the city left the politics to professional politicians. They never had power to cope with the sanitation, traffic, and other problems which come with rising population, racial conflict, and industrialization.

When such problems came to the city due to social & racial problems there was not a strong enough political force to handle it.

A Buvaite city is the story of failure. a story repeated in all large cities of America.

You focus much too much on only Rochester.
