

FIG. 4

FIG. 5

FIGS. 3-5. Progress of the transformation on the surface of the crystal.

FIG. 6 Loss of transparency due to scattering from the transformed material in the interior of the crystal. Exposure time for Fig. 6 is considerably larger than for Figs. 3-5.

OPTICAL C

This phe
formation p
the sample
simple exp
free surface
than the ir consider as
that the sur
different cr
that they w
applied pr
example, a 0.1% less
volume ch
1100 b app
some press
pressure in layers of th
that of the
of the sur
would det
observed th
experiment
proposal.

The opt
lapse phot
mitted an
the trans
became tra
the high p
pressure w
the trans
so that th
lished to high trans Values of transforma
transforma
sure value
quite narro
transforma
The range
previously 3900 b.⁽¹⁴⁾

We feel
formations
during the
and intere