

ABSTRACT

The thermal and electrical conductivity of ionized argon in chemical equilibrium has been computed for temperatures from 3000 - 25000^oK at pressures from 0.001 - 1000 atm. Values are given here for these properties with and without an imposed DC magnetic field up to 200kGauss. A comparison is made of the computed properties with measurements in the wall-stabilized arc.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

SECTION		PAGE
I	INTRODUCTION	1
II	CROSS SECTIONS	2
III	TRANSPORT COEFFICIENTS	10
IV	DISCUSSION	18
V	ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS	19
VI	REFERENCES	20
VII	TABLES	22
VIII	FIGURES	26
IX	APPENDICES	37