

Edelstein, D.

64-0713

The image shows a sheet of graph paper with a grid of 20 columns and 25 rows. The top row is a header row, and the rest of the grid is for data entry. A central column is defined by two vertical lines, creating a narrow column that spans all 25 rows. The grid is otherwise empty.