

studied for pyrophyllite cells in carbide anvils. There is probably about 3 to 5 kilobars increase in pressure from heating to 1000 °C at 50 to 70 kilobars over the pressure measured at room temperature (37), (38). This correction is not certain and was not applied to the present studies.