Dad,

If you want to get a new display, send it back to me and I'll get a new one installed - I've sent in your guarantee card.

I took it apart thinking I could replace the defective unit (there are 3 5-digit ~~display~~ units in the display) with some displays some guys at the lab got -- but they are soldered in place, and I decided not to fool with it.

If you want to see the innards, here's where the screws are:

carefully peel back instruction sheet - it's heavy gauge aluminum foil - fastened with contact cement.

rubber feet - gently pull back outer edge with tweezers.

Have fun - it's sure a beauty!

Love

Tracy J

P.S. Suggest you send for security cradle (I can't get it discount) - reports are that many have been stolen. - or keep it locked in your desk.
