Dear Mr. Tracy Hall,

We were about to inform the National Physical Laboratory and our office in India of Professor Giardini's proposed visit in August this year, but have just received a cable from New Delhi advising us of the decision by the National Physical Laboratory not to install the material synthesis equipment in temporary quarters but to await installation of the equipment in the new building when it is ready. It has been indicated that the new building will be completed by the end of August. This, of course, will necessitate a later date for your commissioning and it has been indicated that this could take place in mid-September following completion of the new building. We will inform you of the exact building completion date as it becomes known later on.

Hope this does not cause too great an adjustment in your future schedules.

Yours sincerely,

L.A.M. Beeson
