Dear Tracy:

I'm so sorry to hear that you have had a serious illness. I hope that everything is now under control. Of course, you should extend your time. It would not really hurt me too badly if I got your article as late as the first of December.

Best personal wishes,

Dear Dr. Hall:

It is my pleasure to inform you of your selection by the awards committee of the Utah Academy of Sciences, Arts, and Letters to be the recipient of its biennial Willard Gardner Prize in the Natural Sciences.

This prize is awarded in recognition of the most significant contribution in the sciences within the State of Utah during the five years preceding the award. It carries with it a stipend of $1500.

It would be our pleasure to present this award to you at our biannual conference which will be held on December 2, at the University of Utah. It is a tradition of the Utah Academy of Sciences, Arts, and Letters that recipients of this prize make a thirty-five to forty-five minute presentation concerning their work and contributions during the past five years.

I would appreciate hearing from you at your earliest convenience concerning your willingness to accept this award.

Should you have any questions about either the prize or the presentation, please contact Dr. John H. Gardner, Department of Physics, Brigham Young University.

My sincere congratulations,
