Dear Doctor Hall:

Many thanks for your letter of June 24 indicating your willingness to accept the 1972 ACS Award for Creative Invention. As you will note from the attached copy of a letter to the Program Chairman of the Division of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry, we have informed him of your selection. Further correspondence concerning your award address should be handled directly with the officers of the Division with a copy to this office.

Yours sincerely,

Dear Doctor Luberoff:

Dr. H. Tracy Hall, POB 533, University Station, Provo, Utah 84601, has been selected as the 1972 recipient for the ACS Award for Creative Invention. The presentation will be made at the General Meeting of the ACS Spring Meeting in Boston on Monday, April 10, 1972.

First announcement of his selection will be made at the National Meeting of the Society in Washington, D. C. in September. Until then, the information is confidential.

Doctor Hall Writes:

"I would like to deliver my address on the subject 'High Pressure Machines That I Have Built' and present it before the Division of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry. I would plan to present slide photographs of the two dozen machines that I have designed and built and discuss their operating principles. This address would last one hour."

It is surmised that you will be pleased to make a place for his address on your program and probably, as usual, will wish to surround it with contributions of a related nature. It is for this reason that we are informing you as promptly as possible.

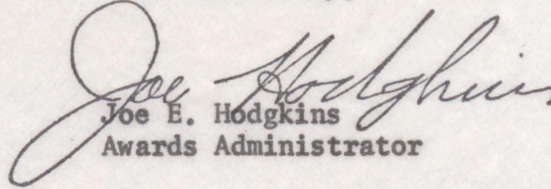

Dr. B. J. Luberoff
